NUMBER:	1301
TITLE:	University Governance
APPROVED:	August 9, 1979; Revised June 19, 1986; Revised June 17, 2021
SCHEDULED REVIEW DATE:	June 2026

Governance is a process of consultation communication and decision aking that produces institutional policies These policies are the general guidelines that inform decision and the development of procedures throughout the University

Definitions

Administrative Liaison: an individual member of the Pident's Cabinet who serves as a conduit between and advocate for one or more representative governing bodies and the President's Cabinet for non-policy issues.

The Dean's Council advises the Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs on strategic matters, reviews proposals for new degrees, and facilitates inter unit communication and collaboration. Membership of the Council is comprised of the Dedice, Provost for Academic Affairs, and Vice Provost for Faculty Affairs and Strategic Initiatives.

The Faculty Senate a governance body representing the faculty of the University.

President's Cabinet the chief policy and decision making body the President.

The

- 1. Seekto ensurewidespreadcommunication understandingparticipation and reasonable consensus.
- 2. Addresspressingissues in a streamlined, adaptive, flexible way and encourages the appropriate use of sunset ules for committees and task forces.
- 3. Strive to generate widespread understanding hroughout the University community of the differences among policy, and nsultation regarding policy.
- 4. Allow stakeholders in the policynaking process to express their views and suggestions when policies affecting them are being reviewed and when the best solutions are being considered.
- 5. Ensure regular, twoway communication broken representatives of stakeholders participating policy-making and hose they represent.
- 6. Seek to guarantee that participants in the portical wing process are provided with the appropriate esource and information so that they may participate in a timely fashion.
- 7. Recognize that the primary responsibility for polingaking and decisiomaking ineach areaof University life must belearly designated.

Eachgovernanceody of Old Dominion University is responsible or ensuring that these principles are reflected in their constitutions and by laws and otherwise upheld by the detail of the second second

Governance Structure

At Old Dominion University, governance is an internal process of policy development sanctioned by the University's Board of Visitors, which holds overall authority for the activities of the institution. The President is delegated the authority to be the chief decision making and policy making authority for the University. The President's Cabinet is the destrictly's conduit for communication, consulting with the President on all issues related to governance and providing information to the President to assist in decision to the President to assist in decision.

The Faculty Senate and the Student Government Association have direct address dard of Visitors through nonvoting representatives selected annually by the Board of Visitors

CommitteesandOtherAffinity andAdvisory Groups

At Old Dominion University, there are a number of committees, taskforces, and advisops that contribute to campus dialogue, deal with special issues, and support the day operations of the institution. These groups, though not an official part of the University sernances ystem, canat various imesbecalled totake part inthe development policy. Within each administrative division of the University, there are a number of advisory groups and other staff positions that play an important role in the development and vetting of policy.

